Background Information:

The Board of Education is committed to assisting schools and school divisions that have failed to make progress toward student achievement goals by reviewing and approving models and programs that have proven to be successful with low-achieving students. In the past, the board has approved instructional models and programs for use by schools implementing various requirements of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB). Examples include a list of approved programs for selection under Comprehensive School Reform (Title I, Part F) as well as approved supplemental educational services providers as required under Title I, Part A.

As some of Virginia’s schools move into Year Three of School Improvement, which requires corrective action, the board desires to offer additional options to schools to comply with NCLB.
Section 1116(b)(7)(C)(iv) of the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 describes the corrective actions required for schools in Year Three of School Improvement: “. . . by the end of the second full school year after the identification [of a school for School Improvement], the local education agency shall—

(i) continue to provide all students enrolled in the school with the option to transfer to another public school served by the local educational agency, in accordance with paragraph (1)(E) and (F);

(ii) continue to provide technical assistance consistent with paragraph (4) while instituting any corrective action under clause (iv);

(iii) continue to make supplemental educational services available, in accordance with subsection (e), to children who remain in the school; and

(iv) identify the school for corrective action and take at least one of the following corrective actions:

(I) Replace the school staff who are relevant to the failure to make adequate yearly progress.

(II) Institute and fully implement a new curriculum, including providing appropriate professional development for all relevant staff, that is based on scientifically based research and offers substantial promise of improving educational achievement for low-achieving students and enabling the school to make adequate yearly progress.

(III) Significantly decrease management authority at the school level.

(IV) Appoint an outside expert to advise the school on its progress toward making adequate yearly progress, based on its school plan under paragraph (3).

(V) Extend the school year or school day for the school.

(VI) Restructure the internal organizational structure of the school.

Rather than undertaking one of these actions on its own, a school division may prefer to contract with a third party to implement one or more of these corrective actions in a low-performing school. Since numerous private educational management companies have such services available, the board proposes to establish criteria for reviewing and approving companies for this purpose in Virginia. These criteria would ensure a minimum level of assurance that a company is able to effectively provide such services. However, the companies would operate under a contract with the school division, and any performance measures and stated outcomes would be agreed on between the school division and the management company.

In addition to providing options for corrective action, a private educational management company may also allow a school division to provide additional alternatives for public school choice. For example, a management company may be able to offer the structure for a charter school, a school within a school, or other innovative ways to provide a choice of educational opportunities for students.
Summary of Major Elements

Attached is a list of proposed criteria that the Board of Education will use to assist school divisions in identifying potential private educational management companies. The five categories are:

1) Financial and organizational capacity, including financial soundness, management structure, legal status, and effectiveness
2) Instructional capacity, including academic accountability, links to research/best practice, and proven record of success
3) Personnel capacity, including teaching and administrative personnel
4) Professional development capacity, including professional development capacity for teaching and administrative staff
5) Communication capacity, including ways to maintain contact with parents, the community, the local school board and other stakeholders.

Superintendent's Recommendation:

The Superintendent of Public Instruction recommends that the Board accept for first review the proposed criteria for approval of private educational management companies to provide services to Virginia schools.

Impact on Resources:

The impact of this activity can be absorbed within existing resources at the Department of Education at this time.

Timetable for Further Review/Action:

The item will be submitted for final review at the April 20, 2005, meeting of the Board of Education.
Virginia Board of Education
Proposed Criteria for Review of Private Educational Management Companies

March 23, 2005

Introduction

The Board of Education is committed to assisting school divisions that have failed to make progress toward established student achievement goals in establishing partnerships with private educational management companies. Listed below are the criteria that the board will consider when assisting school divisions that may want to partner with a private management company to improve student achievement and academic performance of the school.

Criteria

I. Financial and Organizational Capacity

a. Financial Soundness
   The organization provides evidence that it is financially sound. The evidence may include: a description of how the organization currently receives funds (i.e., grants, fees-for-service, investments, etc.); audited financial statements; credit ratings from an independent rating agency; organizational budgets that account for revenues, expenses, cash flow activity; and/or proof of liability insurance.

b. Management Structure
   The organization provides evidence that it has a sound management structure. The evidence may include: a business plan or profile; proof that adequate organizational resources are available to meet project needs; senior staff résumés; and/or a description of an established system of management.

c. Legal Status
   The organization provides documentation required to conduct business in Virginia. The evidence may include: a copy of a business license, and/or formal documentation of legal status.

d. Effectiveness
   The organization demonstrates that it has the ability to have a positive impact on student achievement. The evidence may include: student achievement results on a valid, reliable performance measure that demonstrates success with low-income, minority students; a research report or study that documents the organization’s success; and/or additional evidence of improved outcomes such as reference letters, improvement in non-academic factors such as attendance, drop-out rate, graduation rate, student behavior/discipline, or parent/student satisfaction.
II. Instructional Capacity
   a. Academic Accountability
      The organization provides evidence that it uses specific programs and practices to diagnose student needs and prescribe appropriate instructional programs, and evaluates and monitors student progress. The evidence may include: a description of the specific process or program; and/or a timetable that demonstrates how the program or practice results in the desired outcome.
   b. Link to Research/Best Practice
      The organization provides evidence that key instructional practices and central design elements of the organization are linked to current research and best practices. The evidence may include a description of how the instructional practices and central design elements are high quality, based in scientifically-based research, and designed to increase student academic achievement; and/or a plan of how the company will ensure that the instructional practices and central design elements are linked to current research and best practice.
   c. Proven Record of Success
      The organization provides evidence that demonstrates a proven record of successful implementation of the program. The evidence may include: a contract, warranty, or memorandum of agreement.

III. Personnel Capacity
   a. Teaching Personnel
      The organization provides evidence that it can hire highly qualified staff that meet the licensure requirements for Virginia teachers in the subject matter they will be teaching as defined in the licensure requirements for Virginia teachers. Evidence of experience in working with low-income, minority, migrant, students with disabilities, and limited English proficient students is also required. The evidence may include: a summary report of staff qualifications; and/or copies of Virginia educational licenses.
   b. Administrative Personnel
      The organization provides evidence that it can hire highly qualified staff as defined in the licensure requirements for Virginia administrators.
Evidence of experience in working with low-income, minority, migrant, students with disabilities, and limited English proficient students is also required. The evidence may include: a summary report of staff qualifications; and/or copies of Virginia educational licenses.
IV. Professional Development Capacity
   a. Professional Development for Teaching Staff
      The organization provides evidence that it can provide research-based, on-going, sustained, high-quality staff development for the teaching staff. Evidence of experience may include: past professional development plans and evidence of success; and/or an implementation plan for this school division.
   b. Professional Development for Administrative Staff
      The organization provides evidence that it can provide research-based, on-going, sustained, high-quality staff development for the administrative staff. Evidence may include: past professional development plans and evidence of success; and/or an implementation plan for this school division.

V. Communication Capacity
   a. Parent/Community Communication
      The organization provides evidence of an accurate, consistent, timely, regular system of communication with the parents and community. Evidence may include examples of successful communication plans used for other clients; and/or an implementation plan for this school division.
   b. Local School Board of Education Communication
      The organization provides evidence of an accurate, consistent, timely, regular system of communication with the local school board. Evidence may include examples of successful communication plans used for other clients; and/or an implementation plan for this school division.
